driving higher productivity, optimizing teamwork, and providing more opportunity for people to support each other and their communities.

“At UKG, we strive to create lifelong partnerships with our customers by helping them create modern, meaningful people experiences to drive better business outcomes and anticipate employee needs beyond just work,” said Mike May, vice president of technology partnerships at UKG. “By cultivating a highly engaged ecosystem of technology partners, including MeridianLink’s TazWorks, we’re able to help create a more seamless and empowering technology experience.”
