DISCO Announces All-Inclusive Platform for eDiscovery

2026-02-25

Also introduces new pricing approach to meet evolving litigation needs

AUSTIN, Texas--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- DISCO (NYSE: LAW), a creator of industry-leading litigation technology, today announced an all-new, all-inclusive solution for litigation, investigations and regulatory responses, designed to put its market-leading eDiscovery and AI tools in a single platform at a single, transparent price.

The new DISCO offering combines its eDiscovery, Cecilia AI, deposition management and timelines capabilities into a powerful platform to give customers one-stop access to some of the most advanced litigation technology available. The DISCO platform will also include DISCO's newly announced, first-of-its-kind agentic AI solution for eDiscovery at no additional charge.

"Fast-evolving generative AI capabilities are demonstrating that one-off eDiscovery products are increasingly inadequate. DISCO's platform assembles the most impactful tools for modern litigation into a seamless end-to-end solution," said CEO Eric Friedrichsen. "Combining advanced, enterprise-grade features with an unparalleled user experience in one package at a single price is just the latest way we continue to innovate on behalf of our customers."

The new DISCO platform includes:

Ediscovery: Premier technology delivering instant access to the data that matters most;

Cecilia AI: Advanced AI-powered Legal tools to streamline and accelerate litigation;

Deposition Management and Timelines: Powerful assisted deposition and timeline capabilities – previously sold separately as Case Builder – tailored to support every matter.

In addition to its all-inclusive platform, DISCO also announced a new pricing approach – one transparent, per GB price on processed data with no ingest fees that better enable clear like-for-like comparisons of costs and capabilities.

“As more and more customers look to take advantage of AI to maximize their team's capabilities, we're making it simple to access all of DISCO's advanced technology at a single, predictable cost,” said Chief Product, Technology and Strategy Officer Richard Crum. “We're not building point solutions. We're building powerful, integrated tools that tackle the full litigation lifecycle of today's largest and most complex matters.”

DISCO's new platform – including its agentic capabilities – will be on display at Legalweek; stop by for a demonstration or more information.
